

The Reading Section

Reading takes 25 minutes and has 5 parts. You will read short texts — notices, signs, emails, announcements, short articles — and answer comprehension or gap-fill questions about each.

Each part shows a progress bar at the top (e.g. 1/4) and a countdown timer. Pace yourself: aim for around 5 minutes per part.

The five parts of Reading

PART 1 Short text, choose the meaning

You will read 4 short texts. For each one, choose the answer that best matches the meaning.

PART 2 Complete the sentence

You will read 4 short sentences with a missing word. Choose the correct word from the options.

PART 3 Complete the sentence (extended)

Same format as Part 2, with slightly more challenging vocabulary and grammar.

PART 4 Complete the sentence (advanced)

Same format again. The sentences usually test more nuanced word choice or grammatical accuracy.

PART 5 Longer text, comprehension

A longer reading passage followed by questions that check your understanding of the whole text.

Strategies for the Reading section

HOW TO READ EFFICIENTLY

- Read the instructions carefully and thoroughly. A misread instruction wastes the whole question.
- Look for capital letters and numbers — names of people, places, days, months, prices. They are often the answers to "Who?", "Where?", "When?", or "How much?" questions.
- Answer the easy ones first. Don't get stuck on a hard question. Mark it, move on, come back.
- Guess from context. If you don't know a word, look at the words around it. You can usually work out the meaning without understanding every single word.
- Eliminate wrong answers. In multiple choice, cross off the ones you know are wrong — then choose between what's left.

PACING YOURSELF

You have 25 minutes for 5 parts. That's about 5 minutes per part. If a part has 4 questions, that's just over a minute per question. Don't spend three minutes on a single tough one — move on.
